Do Flying Fish Fly?

Opinions differ. On a blazing afternoon in May last, on board the steamer India, some hundred miles off the African coast on the way to Ceylon, I had the first and only opportunity I ever enjoyed of establishing beyond dispute this vexed question. Owing to the rapid motion of the fish, it was impossible to keep any one of them long enough in the field of vision. It occurred to some of us at length to look over the bows of the steamer, and there we saw a slight net soon to be forgotten. The flying fish appeared frequently shooting upward in large numbers from the blue, glassy depths directly beneath us, as the shoals were disturbed by the vessel's cutter, their every movement plainly discernible while under water, and from the moment they rose "winnowing the waving element" with expanded wings and tail, bent on escaping the pursuing craft, until they dipped again into the sea for shelter or to obtain fresh impetus for continued flight. I satisfied myself, and so did my fellow-watchers, that after a certain number of strokes with wings and tail, from twenty to thirty, varying with the dimensions of the fish, which we repeatedly counted as they left corresponding impressions on the oily surface of the water, these appendages were not employed to accelerate but merely to sustain the flight while the fish remained in the air. The curved impressions left by the wings on the water appeared, as nearly as I could judge, from twelve to eighteen inches apart on either side of the fish's course until clear of the water. The tail made no perceptible imprint, but could be clearly seen waving from side to side, adding, doubtless, considerably to the impulse. After rising out of the water the wings and tail remained rigid, but in some instances were slightly twisted to preserve the equilibrium. Occasionally a fish appeared to lose its balance in the hurry of escape and toppled over in a ridiculous fashion.

A Chance Acquaintance.

Frequently some of the dearest friendships of life date from chance traveling acquaintanceship. Do you remember what Dickens makes that odd piece of human nature, Miss Wade, say, when the English traders, who were quarantined in that poky little inn in Marseilles, are bidding one another good-bye, as they suppose forever? Let me quote it: "In our course through life we shall meet the people who are coming to meet us, from many strange places and by many strange roads; and what it is set us to do to them, and what it is set them to do to us, will all be done."

The Governor's Old Friends

Gov. Porter, of Indiana, tells a very funny story on himself, acknowledging that for once in his life he was floored. During a recent campaign he went into a small town to make a speech. He began something in this way: "My friends, I am glad to meet you again. I always like to come to Blankville, and to see, as I do now, so many old friends."

Style a Good Thing.

The common herd needs a little of it, intermingled with the plain, to make the picture complete. All good clothing and bright colors would grow monotonous if it were not for the tender shades of poverty and simplicity thrown into the paths of business and society. To be sure, you get the best sketches of human nature from the humble. The poor furnish the best lessons of life. Those who struggle for bread or a place in the world teach us the most and tell us the best stories that are written. Culture is too apt to make us liars. Perhaps not in the offensive sense, but in reality. To sit on the wheel of fortune and stop at the stile marked style and fashion means to appear what we are not and act what we do not believe. To cultivate the grace alone is to be a cheap actor. It is better to be rude, natural and honest than to be polite and insincere.

A pretty frame for a photograph may be made out of the cover of a pasteboard box. Cut out the frame to fit, then cover neatly with a piece of garnet or dark blue silk or silecia. Over this paste maple leaves, which may be gathered beautifully tinted at this season. The leaves should be put on with the points in one direction. Cover with a coating of copal if desired, the frame can be made oval or circular.

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

SIX-PAGE EDITION.

For several years the 12,000 tons of lead held by the Richmond Company at the scene of its operations in Eureka, this State, stood as a menace to the lead market of the world. Prices were kept down by manipulators and the company kept adding to the huge pile. Finally the price advanced to four and a half and four and three-quarters cents, and the Richmond Company disposed of its stock. Judging from a telegram just received an effort is being made to handle the market successfully. A strong combination has been formed by the lead-smelting firms of the west with the view of forming a compact to sustain the American lead market. The move is said to have been very quietly pushed to a successful issue, and details are now being perfected.

STATE SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT DOVEY has indorsed a circular which Professor Charles W. Friend, the Director of the Nevada State Weather Service, has issued to teachers and school officers. This indorsement is hearty and comes at the right time. An efficient weather bureau in Nevada is greatly needed and there are none better qualified to assist Director Friend than the live teachers of this State.

SILVER interests will unquestionably be attacked again this Winter in the National Congress. At the Bankers' Convention held in Pittsburgh, Pa., Thursday, it was recommended that the coinage of silver dollars by the United States be suspended until the points at issue of the silver dollar be settled by an international agreement. It is well that Nevada is so ably represented in Congress.

This office has received a complaint from a Long Valley subscriber, in which he states that he does not receive his GAZETTE. Investigation shows that it is abstracted from the mail bag, which is opened by some lover of good literature. If the party will send to this office his name a free copy will be sent him.

PEOPLE living on the south side of the river complain that they do not hear the fire alarm bell, especially when it rings at night. Would it not be a good idea to let the night watchman have the key of the Methodist Church so that its bell also may be rung?

DARKNESS PREVAILS.
Inconvenience Caused by the Gas Works Fire.

On several occasions lately, owing to insufficient motive power and other causes, the Electric Light Company have been unable to supply the requisite illumination to our citizens. Much complaint was the result, and several of our business men discontinued the electric light and subscribed for gas. Then the gas company was jubilant and the other company disconsolate. Last night, however, in consequence of the fire at the gas works, there was wailing and gnashing of teeth among those who discontinued electricity, particularly the saloon men. Lamps, some old and dilapidated, bulls-eye lanterns, torches and tallow candles were brought into requisition. Stud-horse poker was carried on by the light of sputtering candles, which were placed around the tables at each player's elbow, while the faro dealers had a similar illuminator on each side of them, the case-keeper being likewise provided for. Flickering penny dips were placed in the check tray and also in the money drawers, and the dealers in plying and taking bets, frequently knocked the greasy lights over the layout and the players. It was very amusing for the spectators, but was a source of much profanity from the insiders.

While the congregation at the Baptist Church was singing the hymn "Still There's More to Follow," the gas light, which had been weakening for some time, went completely out, leaving the congregation to the mercy of a few lovers of the weed, who, with lighted matches, made the darkness visible. Lamps were soon provided, and the Rev. Mr. Chubbuck proceeded with the service, preaching a most interesting sermon to the vast concourse of people assembled.

A Threatening State of Affairs in Corea.

[PRESS DISPATCHES TO THE GAZETTE.]

Murdered at the Church Door.
CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—In a throng of people at the church door of one of the most fashionable congregations in Chicago, a gray-haired millionaire bank president was remorselessly shot down to-day by his stepson to avenge or shield a woman charged with continued adultery. The woman was no less a person than Mrs. Meekie Rawson, wife of the banker shot, and mother of the assassin. The banker is Stephen W. Rawson, President of the Union Trust Company, of Chicago. William Lee, aged 17, is the stepson. Banker Rawson, with five bullets in his body, and apparently in a dying condition, was hastily picked off the blood-spattered curb and bundled into one of the score of carriages that had been waiting for the wealthy worshippers. Young Lee, with the empty, still SMOKING REVOLVER

In his hand, was as hurriedly thrown into a strikingly different conveyance—the blue-painted, common-place wagon of the nearest police patrol, that came rattling around the corner. A way went a carriage in one direction; off in the other dashed the patrol wagon, while all around on the streets and sidewalks gaped the horror-stricken thousands of five great churches in the vicinity, just popping out after the morning's praise of Him who commanded, "Thou shalt not kill." "Thou shalt not commit adultery." Slowly the crowd began to recover their dazed senses and recall in detail the fearful circumstances of the crime. Young Lee had been seen for half an hour previous, pacing the stone sidewalk on Ashland Avenue, near Madison, fronting the Third Presbyterian Church. Of this church Banker Rawson has long been a leading light and was still an honored member, notwithstanding he has been charged by his wife with perjury and other offenses, enough to make him, if true, a veritable

WHITED SEPULCHER.
He, on the other hand, alleged that she, although prominent in society and a beautiful woman in appearance, was a disreputable, blasphemous, devilish-tempered adventuress. For a year or more they have been fighting each other in the divorce courts, and within a week the banker has filed against her additional charges of adultery.

Little attention was paid to young Lee, as he stalked backward and forward past the church entrance. He was lost in the crowd when the galloping congregation began to come out, among them the well-known form of the bank President. Mr. Rawson was about to step into his carriage when, breaking the sweet, majestic tones of the great organ, came the sharp crack of a revolver, followed by a deep groan. An earthquake could have scarcely produced more confusion at the moment among the throngs of gentlemen, ladies and children and the long tiers of carriages and coachmen that lined the sidewalks in every direction. A din of screams began, but subsided almost instantly. Slender, well-dressed, youthful Lee was seen to quickly, but coolly steady his shining pistol with his left hand, while with his right he again and again

FULLED THE FATAL TRIGGER.
With the stifled cry, "I'm killed!" the aged millionaire fell prostrate on the stone flags, upturning his agonized white face at the cold, set countenance of his stepson.
Not till the last of the five chambers had been emptied into the man's body did Lee seem to breathe. The crowd seemed rooted to the stones in horror, helpless until a policeman came running to the scene. Then began a wild clamor, and Lee, turning to the officer, hoarsely whispered, "Take me to jail quick." It seemed scarcely a moment till a patrol wagon bore him away.

When the dying banker reached his home six physicians had been called. They probed for the bullets and found that all had lodged in the legs or arms save one that had entered near the small of the back, and, as nearly as could be judged, plunged through his abdomen. If his life is saved it will be little short of a miracle.

Over at the police station young Lee was asking a reporter to carry Mrs. Rawson, his mother, the news. She occupies apartments at the Continental Hotel. The reporter sent up word that he had extremely important business and was presented without delay to a plump, dark-complexioned, MANDRILL WOMAN.

In the prime of life, the most noticeable feature of whom was a pair of snapping black eyes. She was clad in a tasteful, tight-fitting dark dress and white jacket.
"Well, what business have you?" said she.
"Then you have heard nothing of your son the banker?"
"No; what is it?"
The reporter then detailed to the lady the particulars of the affair. She replied that she was glad of it. That Rawson had branded her as a public prostitute, and that her son had done no more than any good son should do. She would defend the boy if it took her last dollar.
At 4 o'clock Rawson made his will, and at midnight the doctor had no hope of his recovery.

AFFAIRS IN COREA.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The steamship Rio de Janeiro, which arrived this morning, brings advice to the effect that a crisis is approaching in the affairs of Corea, over which kingdom the Emperor of China claims sovereignty. Simultaneously with the appointment by the King of Corea of five ministers plenipotentiary to represent the Korean Government in European courts, Mr. Yuen, China's Resident Minister, left Corea secretly. The Japan agent, commenting on the affair, says: "Yuen's departure has been made the subject of strange stories. One rumor has it that he fled from threatened assassination, but it seems much more likely that he has gone to consult Viceroy Si, who is practically monarch of Corea."

A Short Skirt for Murderers.
CHARLESTON, W. Va., October 16.—Fully 300 citizens started out yesterday morning after the robbers who murdered Mr. Ryan near Wallon, Roan county, last Thursday night. Officers and citizens ran into the robbers, 15 in number, last night at George Duff's residence, eight miles from Sissonville, this county, and were warned to keep off by the robbers, who had taken refuge in a house fitted with portholes and made other arrangements for protection. The murderers were fired upon and Geo. Duff, Jr., killed. Jake Coon was captured and lynched. Five of the officers and citizens in the battle were wounded. Information received in very meagre. There are about 20 robbers in the gang, who have been carrying on at a high rate. M. Duff, George Drake and Frank Shambling are prisoners, and await the pleasure of the vigilance committee for their disposal. It is believed a full confession will be made and the whole gang lynched.

A New Home Rule Book.
LONDON, Oct. 17.—Messrs. Gladstone and Morley each contribute articles for the "Home Rule Hand Book," which will be issued on Monday, preparatory to the Liberal federation meeting in Nottingham. Mr. Gladstone's article is entitled "The Lesson of Irish History." He traces the history of Ireland for the past 700 years, and deals with the necessity during the present crisis of becoming acquainted with the true state of the account between the islands of the United Kingdom.

George W. Childs' Gift.
LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Shakespeare memorial fountain, presented by G. W. Childs, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, to the town of Stratford-upon-Avon, was dedicated with imposing ceremonies to-day. There was an immense crowd in attendance and much enthusiasm was manifested. Dr. McCauley represented Childs at the proceedings. Just before noon the invited guests formed in line and marched to the town hall and thence to the side of the fountain. Henry Irving made the dedication speech. He said he admired Childs' public spirit and energy, which were worthy of Philadelphia. His generous deeds were widely known, and he was greatly respected.

Fires in New York.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The Kent and Lakeview hotels, with a number of cottages at Lakeview, near Jamestown, were destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, half a million.
A fire this morning at No. 17 South street, New York, occupied by J. G. Alport, wholesale grocer and ship chandler, caused damage of about $100,000.

Dr. Charles W. Porterfield, who so successfully treated a number of Reno's citizens during his last visit, will arrive here on Tuesday, October 18th, to remain for one week. In his line, rupture cure, he has a reputation inferior to none. The Doctor has secured rooms at the Lake House.

A Successful Failure.

Rev. Mr. Chubbuck preached a very interesting sermon last night. A large number arose for prayers, and a very interesting after service was attended by what under other circumstances would be considered a large congregation. The union services will be continued this week in the Baptist Church. Bible reading at 8 p. m. and preaching at 7:30 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Chubbuck will sing every evening. If you think they are failures, go and hear them.

A slight wreck occurred Wednesday night at Blue Canyon. A freight train coming east ran into a portion of one going west which had broken into while going on the side track. One car was derailed. The trucking crew cleared the track.

FIRE! FIRE!

A Close Call for the Gas Works—A Blaze on Center Street.

About half-past 3 o'clock yesterday morning a fire was discovered in one of the several outbuildings in the Gas Company's yard. Finding it impossible to extinguish the fire, the night workman gave the alarm, which was first sounded by the screaming of a locomotive whistle at the depot. Presently the town bell joined in the chorus, and a racket sufficient to arouse the Seven Sleepers was the result.

Although somewhat late in reaching the scene, when they did arrive the fire department (so-called) did very good service. They had an unlimited supply of water from the flour mill ditch and used it to such good purpose that in ten minutes' time they had the fire entirely under control. Fortunately there was no wind blowing at the time, else the Pavilion and other adjacent wooden structures would doubtless have been consumed.

The origin of the fire is supposed to have been carelessness on the part of the workman who attends to the retorts. Pine wood is used in the retorts and when it is reduced to charcoal it is removed. After emptying the retorts of the smoldering mass it is customary to turn the hose on it until the fire is extinguished, but yesterday morning the workman probably neglected to take this necessary precaution, for it was from the pile of charcoal that the fire emanated.

The damage consists in the entire demolition of several wooden sheds in the yard, as well as considerable injury to the retort-room, which was completely gutted. The gas works proper, being of brick, were not destroyed, but everything of a combustible nature, such as door and window casings, floors, ceilings, etc., was burned to cinders.

A force of men has been working since the fire to get things in order for supplying the city with gas. The company hoped to be able to provide gas last night, as the gas tank is uninjured, but were unable to do so.

After the fire the firemen were invited into Mr. Frazer's house, where they were regaled with a feast commensurate with the occasion. The hospitality and thoughtfulness of Mr. Frazer are themes of converse among the boys to-day.

ANOTHER BLAZE.

About 8 o'clock Saturday night an alarm of fire was sounded. The cause proved to be a fire in a woodpile in the rear of the building formerly used as an engine house on Center street. The occupants of the house declare it is a case of incendiarism. The blaze was extinguished before the machines arrived on the ground and before it had communicated to the house. The shed against which the wood was piled was scorched. No other damage was done.

Mr. Roff requests us to announce that the company will supply the city with gas to-night. They have been indefatigable in their efforts to get things in shape, but meet with unexpected setbacks at every turn.

The loss to the company is estimated at $1,000.

Gas To-Night.

The consumers of gas are notified that the company is doing everything possible to repair damages by the late fire, and will have a good supply on hand this evening.

BREVITIES.

Local and General News.

Jake Richardson, a convicted murderer, in Downsville, Cal., cut his throat from ear to ear last Monday.

It is rumored that rich ore has been discovered in Peavine, but it is said that everybody should keep it "a dead secret."

Times-Review: The 200-foot level of the Nevada Queen is turning out ore of fabulous richness to-day, and a good quantity of it.

"Why don't Peble & Young boom Nevada properties?" Why don't owners of ranches and other real estate give them an opportunity to do so?

The expectations anticipated of Union Mining District, Eureka county, two months ago, are not being realized, on account of alleged bad business management.

Yesterday Governor Stevenson appointed Chas. F. Poole as Commissioner of Deeds, to reside in San Francisco, and R. S. Clapp as Notary Public to reside in Pioche, Lincoln county.

C. S. Young, editor of the GAZETTE, left for Thermalito last evening. Parties having business with the real estate of Peble & Young can have the same attended to by calling at this office.

The east-bound overland train yesterday morning was four hours late on account of two cars of the west-bound express train that passed here late Saturday night being derailed between Summit and Truckee.

A purse containing $18 in coin was lost on Virginia street last night, the loser being a poor widow. The party finding it will assure his advent into heaven by returning it to this office or to J. T. Longabaugh, dealer in Studebaker wagons.

Chas. H. Leman, now in the Douglas county jail under sentence of death, seems to take his situation very coolly. He is quite talkative with visitors, and has made an elaborate drawing of the siege of Petersburg and Richmond, in which he says he took a hand.

Elko Independent: Russell & Bradley have shipped this season, so far, about 800 head of beef cattle to San Francisco. Mr. Russell says that notwithstanding that feed has been good on the ranges this year, cattle are not fat, but only in fair condition. Prices are low, as there seems to be a depression in the markets both East and West, and also in Elko.

RENO, NEVADA.

THE STATE'S CHAMPION.

Superior Railroad Facilities, Fertile Fields, Ample Water Power, Etc., Mark the Future Commercial Center.
(Special Correspondence of N. Y. Journal)
RENO, Nevada, Sept. 19, 1887.

To one who has had an opportunity to investigate the various resources of Western Nevada it becomes a surprise to find this section ignored by the present tide of immigration to the far West. Everybody appears to be bound for Southern California without permitting the bare thought of something meritorious existing in Nevada to enter his head.

Nevada, to most people, and intelligent people at that, exists in their minds only as a Comstock mine, and the Comstock mine to them is Nevada. But the time is near at hand when the sickness of mining will make room for the certainty of agricultural success, and when the millions of acres of land now considered barren waste will team with well cultivated farms and sleek cattle. Although Virginia City is perhaps more generally known or heard of in the East, the city which will become the important commercial and agricultural center of this unjustly neglected State, by virtue of its geographical location, is Reno, the county seat of Washoe county. As will be seen, the future of the State, the natural source of supply for a radius of 100 miles, and being located on that great transcontinental railroad, the Central Pacific, already enjoys advantages superior to other cities in this State.

Reno is prettily situated in a charming valley at the foothills of the Sierra Nevada, with a swift mountain stream, the Truckee, flowing through its midst. Its population at present numbers 4,500 people, and the business streets have the appearance of a thriving, bustling town, calculated to double its population in very few years. The stores are substantial buildings, mostly brick, and the heavy stocks carried by the merchants will astonish an Eastern man if disposed to visit Reno from the country towns. The handsome business structure is occupied by the First National Bank, a staunch financial concern, with a paid up capital of $100,000 and a surplus fund of $50,000. This prosperous institution is managed by D. A. Bender, President, and C. T. Bender, Cashier. Aside from this the well-known Bank of Nevada ministers faithfully to the financial wants of the people and enjoys the confidence of the citizens, due directly to the liberal policy adopted by the Hon. C. C. Powning, by far the most progressive spirit in the financial world here.

An examination of the many resources of Reno and the country tributary to it forms an interesting study, and will go to show that in the present state of the world, the future of the country the dark horse will be found not many yards from the city limits of Reno.

CLIMATE.

It will be news to most readers to have the claim of Nevada people that their climate is much superior to the much-vaunted one of California verified by the writer, who has had ample opportunity to do so. Travel all the world over and you will naturally come to the conclusion that the Nevada climate is by far the most delightful to be found on the face of the earth. Eastern people have thus far been taught that the climate of California is the only "simon pure" stuff, all wool and a yard wide, and only those who have witnessed the ladies wearing seal-skin sacques on one side of the street and white lawns on the other in the main thoroughfare of San Francisco or have been melted by an over-estimating thermometer in other portions of the glorious California, fairly realize that the prestige of a California climate rests upon slender threads. The Nevada climate is uniformly mild, with invariably cool nights, and the atmosphere bracing and invigorating, proving a most healthful tonic to the invalid or resident. Indeed, those who cannot live happily in the Nevada atmosphere had better secure their berth for some other world.

AGRICULTURE.

To look at the vast prairies covered with nothing but scruboak and at the same time attempt to point to them as desirable land for farming is well calculated to produce a smile. And at the risk of becoming the laughing stock of many I unhesitatingly assert that there are no more fertile lands within the broad domain of Uncle Sam than the broad valley surrounding Reno, which any one taking the trouble to investigate will readily find out. Too much can hardly be said of a farm of this city and the splendid meadows of the Truckee. Already within a stone's throw of the leading business street the fertility of the soil becomes apparent, and the fact is readily seen to the eye wherever water has been applied nowhere is the contrast more marked than at the grounds surrounding the private dwellings. Here we find a veritable miniature park, with handsome shade trees, well-kept lawns, fragrant flower-beds and an inviting vegetable garden, while the grounds of his next-door neighbor look barren and desolate, due in the first instance simply to moderate supply of water. A little beyond prosperous farms greet the eye and one finds difficulty to believe that this is the same ground originally covered with scruboak.

These lands are to-day offered very cheap, and weighing everything carefully the farmer can look to the city without finding such opportunities as are offered him here-to-day. All kinds of cereals do well here, and three crops of alfalfa (a species of clover) are raised per year, averaging four to six tons for the three cuttings and commanding $7 per ton. This year some 75,000 tons will be required to feed the cattle.

A very important factor to Reno's agricultural development forms the magnificent and easy water supply obtainable here, which will enable millions of acres to be brought under cultivation at a minimum cost. And it is safe to assert that there is scarcely a State in the Union that has more good agricultural land than Nevada.

STOCK RAISING.

Reno is to-day the recognized shipping point for all cattle coming from Northern California and Oregon. On many occasions fully 25,000 head are fed here awaiting shipment, and it is nothing unusual to see four or five car-loads leave for the East per day. The beef of this section, fed on the nutritious alfalfa, is classed as extra. If not superior, to the corn-fed stock of Illinois, and the neighborhood of Reno is already being turned into one of the most successful and greatest stock raising sections of Nevada.

ning factory, one of the most profitable institutions, has been projected, also a scouring mill. The wool clip of the State of Nevada at present reaches 6,000,000 pounds annually, and as woolen goods of all kinds form one of the prime necessities here, the fine opportunity of the establishment of a woolen mill becomes apparent. Iron is also to be found in vast quantities around Reno, affording many chances for the profitable investment in the manufacture of all goods made of this metal. Coupled with this, the advantage of not requiring large capital to engage in the manufacturing business out here, Eastern readers could investigate this paragraph with much profit to themselves.

Aside from the Central Pacific Railroad, Reno is the terminus of the Virginia and Truckee Railroad, connecting this city with the inexhaustible vaults of precious metals found in this State in the historical Comstock lode. Other roads are pointing Renoward, and the time is not far distant when a gridiron of railroads will encircle this thriving city.

Besides the State Insane Asylum, which is by far the handsome public building in the State, erected here through the untiring efforts of Hon. C. C. Powning at a cost of only $60,000, as shown above, Reno boasts of the State University, a very ably conducted institution, as also the School for Girls, presided over by Professor Whitaker, of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, which latter establishment has achieved a well-deserved national reputation for its perfect system, and other educational advantages.

Mrs. Governor Foraker is a daughter of Ezekiah Bundy, an ex-Congressman and an old and respected citizen of Ohio. She is thirty-seven years old and is said to be as diplomatic in political matters as was Mrs. General Logan a few years ago.

The Paradise Mine.

The annual report of Superintendent McCurdy, of the Paradise Valley Mining Company, appears in the Silver State. It shows among other matters of interest that the company paid $40,000 in dividends to the stockholders during the fiscal year; that the mine produced $279,893 74, and lost $64,328 47 by the discount on silver, which should have been paid in dividends to stockholders. The mine is reported in excellent condition and the prospects better than ever before. Considerable work has been done in the way of development. More mining ground and the mill site have been purchased, and the Bullion mine leased, with the option of purchasing it.

The Best Ideal of a Family Medicine.

A remedy which promptly and completely relieves ailments of such common occurrence as indigestion, constipation, biliousness and disorders of a malarial type, is assuredly the best ideal of a family medicine. Such is Hoffman's Stomach Bitters, which is not only capable of eradicating these complaints, but also of counteracting a tendency to kidney troubles, rheumatism and premature decadence of stamina. Taking it "all round" as the phrase is, it is probably not in existence, so useful, effective and agreeable a household panacea as the Bitters. Nor is it less highly esteemed by the medical profession than by the families of America. Numerous testimonials from professional sources of its refragable authenticity evince its merits. The demand for it abroad, no less than in the land of its discovery, is continually increasing, time and experience of its beneficent effects confirming the high opinion originally formed of it.

Unnecessary Misery.

Probably as much misery comes from habitual constipation as from any derangement of the functions of the body, and it is difficult to cure, for the reason that no one likes to take the medicines usually prescribed. Hoffman's Bitters were prepared to obviate this difficulty, and they will be found pleasant to the taste of women and children. 25 cents. At all druggists. J. J. ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
His Inaugural Address of 1861—
Model Document.

The inaugural address of Abraham Lincoln in 1861 is a model of English composition, as it is of American patriotism. It can always be studied with profit by scholars and by statesmen, but at no time would his words of wisdom be more worthy of attention than now. Amid the threats of civil war and slavery agitation, before a people divided into angry factions, clamoring for irreconcilable concessions, he said:

This country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing government they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it, or their revolutionary right to dismember or overthrow it. I cannot be ignorant of the fact that many worthy and patriotic citizens are desirous of having the constitution amended. While I make no recommendation of amendment, I fully recognize the full authority of the people over the whole subject, to be exercised in either of the modes prescribed in the instrument itself; and I should, under existing circumstances, favor, rather than oppose, a fair opportunity being afforded to the people to act upon it. I will venture to add that to me the convention mode seems preferable, in that it allows amendments to originate with the people themselves, instead of only permitting them to take or reject propositions originated by others not especially chosen for the purpose, and which might not be precisely such as they would wish either to accept or refuse. I understand that a proposed amendment to the constitution has passed congress, to the effect that the federal government shall never interfere with the domestic institutions of states, including that of persons held to service. To avoid misconception of what I have said, I depart from my purpose not to speak of particular amendments so far as to say that, holding such a provision to be now implied constitutional law, I have no objection to its being made express and irrevocable. The chief magistrate derives all his authority from the people, and they have conferred none upon him to fix the terms for the separation of the states. The people themselves, also, can do this if they choose; but the executive, as such, has nothing to do with it. It is to administer the present government as it came into his hands, and to transmit it, unimpaired by him, to his successor. Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or any equal hope in the world? In confidence, in being party without faith of being in the right? If the Almighty Ruler of nations, with His eternal truth and justice, be on your side of the north, or on yours of the south, that truth and justice will surely prevail by the judgment of this great tribunal—the American people. By the frame of the government under which we live, this same people have wisely given their public servants but little power for mischief, and have with equal wisdom provided for the return of that little to their own hands at very short intervals. While the people retain their virtue and vigilance, no administration, by any extreme wickedness or folly, can very seriously injure the government in the short space of four years. My countrymen, one and all, think calmly and well upon this whole subject. Nothing valuable can be lost by taking time. If there be an object to hurry any of you, in hot haste, to a step which you would never take deliberately, that object will be frustrated by taking time; but no good object can be frustrated by it. Such of you as are now dissatisfied still have the old constitution unimpaired, and, on the sensitive point, the laws of your own framing under it; while the new administration will have no immediate power, if it would, to change either. If it were admitted that you who are dissatisfied hold the right side in the dispute, there is still no single reason for precipitate action. Intelligence, patriotism, Christianity, and a firm reliance on Him who never yet forsaken his favored land, are still competent to adjust, in the best way, all our present difficulties. In your hands, my dissatisfied fellow-countrymen, and not in mine, is the momentous issue of civil war. The government will not assail you. You can have no oath registered in heaven to destroy the government; while I shall have the most solemn one to "preserve, protect and defend it." I am loath to close. We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic cords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature.

Wasn't Liberal.
"Do you want a case, Mr. Smedes?"
"Certainly, if there's money in it and any show for winning," replied the lawyer.
"Well, it's for libel. I propose to sue this infernal newspaper for traducing my character."
"What has it stated?" inquired the lawyer.
"Why, it has said that I am worse than a hog in my family, that I beat my wife and starve my children, and lie when I get a chance, and don't steal because everybody locks the door when I come around, and a whole lot more of the same kind, and I want damages for it."
"Is that all?"
"Isn't that enough?"
"Hardly. You see there's nothing in the statute against a newspaper doing the trick. When the paper tells a lie on you come around, and I'll see what I can do for you. Good morning."
Said Cicero to Atticus: "Shall you hang your stock up to-night at your father's fires?" Atticus pitifully replied: "I've hung up my summer togas at my uncle's."

CONTRACT FOR SUPPLYING SAN FRANCISCO SCHOOLS LATELY AWARDED TO THE "AUTOMATIC."

THE "AUTOMATIC" AS COMPARED WITH OTHER SEATS.
The illustrations show the great superiority of the Rear-folding Seat over all others in Durability, Economy of Space, and Tendency to a Healthy Position. The cuts were made from Photographs of the desks themselves, and are, therefore, perfectly accurate.

From photograph of the Automatic Rear-folding Seats; in use over five years.
The Automatic Seat, being supported in front, can NEVER SAG, and as the seats fold as the pupils rise, and remain folded and out of the way until they take their seats again, the desks are set much nearer together. The above are set the right distance apart, securing an EASY, GRACEFUL and HEALTHFUL POSITION of the pupil.

From photograph of the best (?) Hinge-Seated Desks; in use less than five years.
One great objection to hinged seats is that they wear so as to become ROY in folding, and SAG, as the above, becoming uncomfortable, or totally unfit for use. The above desks are set the "regulation" distance apart, which distance, together with the sag of the seat, induces the AWKWARD and UNHEALTHFUL POSITION of the pupil.

Recommended by Hon. W. O. Dovey, Superintendent of Public Instruction of Nevada.

Endorsed by President Brown, of the State University of Nevada.

THE J. DEWING COMPANY, Sole Agents, 420 and 422 Bush Street, San Francisco.
